What's New In Adobe Photoshop 2022 (Version 23.0.2)?

The present invention relates to a method of and an apparatus for processing a series of plural fine abrasive particles to produce an abrasive article such as an abrasive tape, an abrasive cloth and an abrasive belt. For the production of a plurality of abrasive articles such as an abrasive belt and an abrasive tape, the abrasive particles are usually formed into a single sheet from fine abrasive particles as a raw material by means of a dispersing machine such as a kneader and a roll mill, and the sheet is rolled in a form in which the abrasive particles are arranged in a row (hereinafter called the "ribbon type"). The sheet of the abrasive particles is subjected to a cutting operation to form a plurality of individual abrasive articles each of which has a predetermined form such as the shape of a tape, belt and a sheet. In the case of producing the ribbon type of abrasive articles, it has been often attempted to form the abrasive particles into a sheet in a unitary manner for providing a higher productivity by forming the abrasive particles into a single sheet and dividing the single sheet by a cutting operation into the individual abrasive articles. One of the two recently proposed methods of forming the abrasive particles into a sheet is shown in FIG. 6, wherein the plural abrasive particles 1 are filled in a mold 2 in the form of a block and the block 2 is milled to form a single sheet 3. In this method, the mold 2 has a plurality of cavities each of which corresponds to one of the abrasive particles 1 and the molten particles flow from one of the cavities into each of the other cavities. The above manufacturing method is disclosed in, for example, Japanese Patent Application Publication No. 63-205571. The other proposed method is disclosed in, for example, Japanese Patent Application Publication No. 63-293571. In this method, the plural fine abrasive particles are mixed with a binder and the mixture is filled in a mold, and the mixture is heated to remove the binder from the particles to form a sheet of the abrasive particles in a unitary form. The manufacturing method of this proposal is different from that of the previously described method in that the particles to be milled are not arranged in a block but are directly supplied into the mold. In any of the above methods, the abrasive particles 1 is processed at a temperature generally ranging from 180.degree. C. to 300.degree. C
